

Hudson Valley Community Power

CLEANER AND CHEAPER ENERGY IS COMING TO RHINEBECK

COMMUNITY CHOICE

*Together, we can lower electricity costs and preserve our environment
for future generations.*

- Support renewable energy
- Access to cheaper electricity
- Consumer protections
- No solar panels to install
- No contracts to sign

The Town of Rhinebeck is considering joining
Hudson Valley Community Power.

The program enables municipal leaders to leverage the purchasing power of residents and small businesses to negotiate more favorable terms for their default energy offerings.

ANNOUNCEMENT:

The Town of Rhinebeck is considering joining Hudson Valley Community Power

The current electricity supply contract expires on June 30, 2021. The Towns of Gardiner, Rhinebeck, and Saugerties and the Village of Nelsonville will join the participating communities in soliciting bids for new electricity rates expected to be effective this July and exploring opportunities to benefit from solar.

What is Hudson Valley Community Power?

Formed in partnership with Joule Community Power, Hudson Valley Community Power is a community choice aggregation program comprised of communities in New York's Hudson Valley.

The program enables participating communities to pool local electricity demand in order to leverage the collective buying power of their residents and small businesses in effort to secure more favorable terms for their default energy offerings.

The participating communities include the City of Beacon, Town of Clinton, Village of Cold Spring, Town of Fishkill, Town of Marbletown, Town of New Paltz, Village of New Paltz, Town of Philipstown, City of Poughkeepsie, and Town of Red Hook.

As of July 1, 2019, the default energy supply to homes and small businesses in the participating communities is 100% renewable.
